the villages seem to soar atop their 6-meter stilts exposed by the lack of water. At this time of year many of the villagers move out onto the lake and build temporary stilted houses. In the wet season when water level rises again, the villagers move back to their permanent houses on the floodplain, the stilts now hidden under the water. Kampong Phluk's economy is, as one might expect, based in fishing, primary in shrimp harvesting.

We will drive to Roluos village just off Route #6 east of Siem Reap and reach the port we will take a boat through the flooded forest the rest of the way to the village. During the dry season the road is clear and you can drive all of the way to the village. Return back for lunch at local restaurant.

In the afternoon, you will have an experience with local village and see real daily life local people are living at the countryside. You will have a chance to take traditional ox cart.
